DETAILED ACTIONClaim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claim 32 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The claimed invention as described in the specification, includes encoding upper and lower layer of a moving image and area information in the upper layer frame and further, expanding the parts image area to include the parts image of the lower layer frame in the upper layer frame. However, examiner fails to disclose in the specification, encoder indicating the parts image area expanded by the area conversion.

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claim 32 is rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over combination claims 1 and 5 of U.S. Patent No. 6,693,960. Although the conflicting claims are not identical in terms of wording and terminology, their scopes are substantially the same and they are not patentably distinct from each other because: Claim 32 of the instant application correspond to, a moving image encoding apparatus comprising: means for separating one moving image sequence into a lower layer having a low frame rate and an upper layer having a high frame rate; lower layer encoding means for encoding the whole image in the moving image sequence in the lower layer; and upper layer encoding means for encoding a partial area of the image in the moving image sequence in the upper layer (which is similar to claim 1 of the Patent No. 6,693,960); and further comprising; area conversion means for expanding the parts image area in the upper layer frame so as to include the parts image area in the lower layer frame, and area information encoding means for encoding the area information in the upper layer frame indicating (the scope of the claim is substantially the same as claim 5 of the above patent). It is noted that the difference is that the encoder, indicating the parts image area expanded by the area conversion means (which is expanding the parts image area in the upper layer frame to include parts image area in the lower layer), in claim 32 of the instant application. However, the above feature is obvious over the invention as claimed in combination claims 1 and 5 of Patent No. 6,693,960, which indicates a moving image encoding; indicating parts image area information and expanding the parts image area in the upper layer frame to include the parts image area of the lower layer in the encoding process. In view of the above, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to implement such teaching to provide a moving image encoding, which can reduce data quantity after encoding without deteriorating the quality of the decoded image.

It is noted that allowing claim 32 of the instant application would result in an unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993).
